

10TH INFANTRY DIVISION
FORT RILEY, KANSAS 1951

COMPANY D 87TH INFANTRY

COMPANY D, 87th INFANTRY

(September 1951 to January 1952)

Capt. Fred R. Brooks, Commanding

10th INFANTRY DIVISION

Camp Funston

Fort Riley, Kansas

General Shea was born in Augusta, Ga. January 11, 1894. He enlisted in the Regular Army February 22, 1915, and served as a private, a corporal, and a sergeant first class in the 1st Engineers until June 3, 1917, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant of Field Artillery.

The general's World War I service was spent as a battery and battalion commander with the 17th Field Artillery, Second Division. He served at the front in the Toulon-Troyon Sector, in the Aisne Defensive, in the Chateau Thierry Sector, in the Aisne-Marne Offensive, in the Marbache Sector, in the St. Mihiel Offensive, and in the Meuse-Argonne Offensive. Following the Armistice, he joined the American Occupation Forces in Germany, returning to the United States in November 1920.

Following his return to the United States in 1920, General Shea held executive assignments at Camp Travis, Texas; Fort Sill, Okla.; Fort Riley, Kans.; Fort Bliss, Texas; Fort Meyer, Va.; Fort Leavenworth, Kans.; and Fort Jackson, S. C. He graduated from the Field Artillery School in June 1923, the Cavalry School in 1924, and the Command and General Staff School in 1936. In September 1943 he was named commanding general of the 141st Field Artillery Brigade at Camp Gordon, Ga. He retained command when this unit was redesignated XIX Corps Artillery at Camp Polk, La., the following month.

General Shea went to Europe in January 1944 and commanded the XIX Corps Artillery throughout the operations of the XIX Corps from the Normandy beachhead to the Elbe River, May 8, 1945. Upon his return to the United States in June, 1945, he became commanding general of the War Department Personnel Center, as well as commanding general of Jefferson Barracks, Mo. After service in the Philippines Ryukyus Command from May 1946 to November 1949 (during which he became assistant to the commander of the 8th Army) he assumed command of the Central Military District of the 6th Army, with station at San Francisco, California.

Prior to his assuming command of Fort Riley, Kans., September 9, 1951, he was assigned as Artillery Inspector at Office, Chief of Army Field Forces, Fort Monroe, Va. He assumed command of the 10th Infantry Division November 1, 1951.

The general has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, the French Legion of Honor, the French Croix de Guerre with Palm, and the Dutch Order of Orange-Nassau. He has five battle stars for World War I and five for World War II.

ASSISTANT DIVISION COMMANDER

Colonel WILLARD K. LIEBEL began his military career by enlisting in the Ohio National Guard on 23 March 1917. Following his graduation from the United States Military Academy in 1924, his 33 years of service has ranged from Company Officer in 1927 to Chief of Theatre Intelligence, War Department in 1943 and Chief of Staff and Assistant Division Commander of the 17th Airborne Division during World War II. Colonel Liebel is a graduate of the Infantry School, the Command and General Staff School, and the Armed Forces Staff College where he was the Senior Airborne Instructor. He has also completed a course in criminology at the University of Vienna. His decorations include the Silver Star, Legion of Merit, Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, Commendation Ribbon, the Belgian Croix de Guerre with Palm and Couronne de Chene of Luxemburg.

Colonel Willard K. Liebel

HISTORY of the 10th INFANTRY DIVISION

The 10th Infantry Division today is an Army division in the United States whose mission is to effect a smooth transition from civilian to Army life and produce basically trained soldiers — a mission that involves the reception, processing, classification, training and shipment of all men newly enlisted in the Army.

Thirty-two years old this year, 10th Division was first activated at Camp Funston in 1918, when it trained men for combat in World War I. Deactivated in 1919 following the Armistice, it remained inactive until 1943.

Reformed at Camp Hale, Colorado, and designated as Mountain Infantry, the 10th Division became one of the best known combat organizations of World War II in its brief two year history. The division is famed for its 19 day drive from the Apennines to the Alps in Northern Italy, one of the most decisive campaigns of the war in Europe.

In August, 1948, 10th Division was activated for a third time, this time at its first home, Camp Funston. This company is one of the many companies trained by 10th Division since that time.

The men whose pictures appear in this volume will travel throughout the world when they leave Camp Funston. They will serve the Army and this nation in many ways and in many countries. It has been the aim of 10th Division to equip them well for whatever assignment they may receive.

To these men, we cadremen who trained them wish the best of luck and adventure. We hope they will retain the spirit of 10th Division wherever they may go, and, in every action, demonstrate their respect for the traditions of this organization.

The 10th Division Patch

THE CROSSED bayonets of the 10th Infantry Division patch are a warning of the consequences awaiting him who dares to tamper with the powderkeg they guard. Placed in saltire to form the Roman Numeral X, they designate the number of the division.

The powderkeg is blue, the Infantry's color, edged in white to form, with the red bayonets, a design based on the national colors.
